Art Unit: 1761

It is first noted that the patent number mentioned on page 1, line 5 of the specification is obviously in error. Patent number 6,090,530 does not relate to a candy pop and holder. It is assumed applicants intended patent number 6,090,420.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Coleman et al (6,090,420).

Note that in regard to claim 2, the claim recites that the body “may” have a bendable stiffener material. This word is being treated as one would treat the word “optionally” –i.e., with or without a bendable stiffener.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Coleman et al (6,090,420) in view of Garcia (4,197,358), Neufeld (4,233,775), Robson (3,624,691), Witkin (5,762,531), Yeh (5,630,745), Wotton (6,237,759), and Ross (6,217,406).

Although claim 2 recites the bendable stiffener material in the alternative and thus can be read as not being present, if one chooses to positively read it in (and to expedite prosecution), then, as evidenced by Garcia, Neufeld, Robson,

Art Unit: 1761

Witkin, Yeh, Wotton, and Ross, the art is replete with examples of form retaining, posable figures made that way by introducing bendable stiffener materials to the figures and to modify Coleman et al and add such material for its art recognized and applicants' intended function would therefor have been obvious.

The remainder of the references cited on the USPTO 892 form are cited as pertinent art.
